Can 'having fun' be a goal?

Yes!

Youth sports are a great way to teach children about proper sportsmanship, working in teams, and following the rules. But the bottom line is, it has to be fun. Fun is what keeps them coming back.

Is fun the greatest benefit? Probably not, but the short term fun, coupled with the long term lessons of sport go a long way. Fun is the pretty wrapping we put around the lessons of commitment, diligence, hard work, and good health.

There's a lot to be said for participating just for the fun of it. Often, fun in itself is worth the effort to play. In reality, fun most often leads to a desire to return to the activity creating still more opportunities for growth.

So, did you have fun in class today?
